My list of blog-worthy items is pretty long but my spare time is short. Here are a few I haven't gotten to that you may be interested in.

- 2012 Geo-Congress and Other 2012 Deep Foundations Events plus 2013 Geo-Congress - Source: Deep Foundations Committee of the Geo-Institute of ASCE

- Settlement problems at ER of Dayton area hospital - Source: Newschannel9
- Post-tensioning used for seismic stability of CA building - Source: ENR via ASCE SmartBrief

- Have fracking earthquakes gone quiet? - Source: Ontario-geofish
  After an exciting few months, the last week has been eerily quiet according to Ontario-geofish.
- New Free 3D Visualization Tool from Microsoft - Source: Microsoft Research via Arizona Geology

- Load testing drilled shafts in Piedmont Rock - Source: Dan Brown and Associates, PC

- State drills deep in Hudson River to prepare for new Tappan Zee Bridge - Source: LoHud.com
- UDOT presents SR-14 plan - Source: thespectrum.com
- Online map shows Oregonians whether their home may slide away - Source: KEPR CBS 19
- Expert Panel Confirms WSDOT's Viaduct Replacement On Schedule, On Budget - Source: AASHTO Journal

- Top 10 UK piling contractors - Source: The Construction Index
- USA Latest to Use Large-diameter TBM for Highway Project - Source: Tunnel Business Online
- Is 'Fracking' profanity? It is to the O&G industry. - Source: Fuel Fix via Geology.com
- Keller Group plc Wins Major Contract Award In Western Australia
- California Central Valley gets comprehensive flood control plan - Source: CE News
- Study indicates hydraulic fracturing not linked to groundwater contamination - Source: CE News
- Tunnel-boring completion great for Seattle, but it's the end of the line for Tacoma plant workers - Source: The News Tribune via ASCE SmartBrief
- Christchurch Earthquake: Rules On Damaged TC3 Sites - Source: Stuff.co.nz
- Gas supply to Armenia halted as landslide damages pipe - Source: Public Radio of Armenia
- Peak Oil Scare Fades as Shale, Deepwater Wells Gush Crude - Source: Bloomberg via Geology.com

- ASFE NewsLog Now Available Free - Source: ASFE: The Geoprofessional Business Association
- Port of Miami tunnel boring machine approaching Government Cut - Source: MiamiHerald.com via

ASCE SmartBrief